Writing.

I think ~~the~~ ^{an} author's means that to be a great teacher people need to show where to look, not ^{to} tell what to see. A good teacher ~~need to~~ ^{should} point where to look to lead them. ~~and that~~ This way students will learn better. ~~and~~

~~I think~~

I think, the author's point of view is right. The best teachers are like this. As students ~~need to learn~~ ^{do} not always have to learn with teacher's help. Students who try to learn something by themselves probably will achieve some sort of success. When students learn without any help they ~~may~~ ^{might} make some mistakes or ^{do} not see what needed to be seen. However, the next time he would do successfully.

~~An example~~

To illustrate my reasons I will give an example from literature, ~~the~~ ^{the} "Harry Potter" series by J.K. Rowling. The main character Harry is a student at the magic school called ~~Hogwarts~~ ^{Hogwarts}. All teachers there ~~were~~ ^{are} very kind. However, they ~~do~~ ^{do} not always tell students what to see. Especially the director of this school. He always talks with riddles. This way he ~~tries~~ ^{is} to give help them to learn something.

In conclusion, I would like to say that the best teachers are not those who explain everything but those who ~~only~~ ^{only} point where to look. ~~and~~ So afterwards you could do it by yourself.
